The DRC Program

The Day Reporting Center is composed of three phases. Participants transition between phases based on their individual case plan.

Phase 1

- Thirty to forty-five days with the focus on detoxification and cognitive restructuring.
- Regular weekly drug testing. (2-3 per week)
- Substance Abuse & Mental Health treatment
- Education, Employment, & Life Skills training
- Secure documents required for employment
- Community Service projects
- Intensive supervision and monitoring.

Phase 2

- Two to six months with the focus on maintaining sobriety, AA/NA meetings, and education
- Random drug testing
- Mandatory employment
- Completion of a Restorative Justice Project
- Continued intensive supervision
- Commencement ceremony

Phase 3 (Aftercare)

- Six months of continued sobriety with random drug and alcohol testing
- Maintain employment
- Transferred to regular probation supervision

The Day Reporting Center is a re-entry effort of the Alabama Board of Pardons and Paroles. The DRC is a “one stop shop” for the crucial services that are necessary for a successful return of County residents. Participants are referred by the Court or Parole Board to complete the DRC as a condition of their community supervision.
